A Practical Guide to Columbia Standards of Visual Identity

A Strong Visual Identity

Having a consistent visual identity throughout all of our marketing communications will keep us at the forefront of the minds of our constituents and allow them to easily identify the work of our organizations.

A Strong Visual Identity

Dual-school Mark

What is the Standard logo, and when do I use it?

Using the standard "logo" (which is one image file composed of two logos) is the best way for students to identify with the schools we support. To achieve visual balance in this dual-school mark, the individual school logos have been modified.

Single-school Identity

What do I use if a publication relates to just One school?

or

In a situation where a unit or office must provide a logo for a program that supports only one school, please use that school's official logo. When viewed side by side, you may notice the subtle differences in the official logos, including crown size and placement, text tracking, and the use of separators.

Single-school Identity

How do I spot an Unapproved dual-school mark?

The two individual logos are stacked in the graphic above to help highlight their differences. Notice the crown size and placement, text tracking (the space in between letters), the use of separators (the line between Columbia and Engineering), and the amount of space between lines.

Columbia College

- The preferred logo of the College is blue, but using black ink is also acceptable.
- Use "Columbia College" in formal documents.
- Use the abbreviation "CC" in informal documents or when noting degrees earned.
- The class year designation is "CC" followed by the class year.

Example: Kat Cutler CC'11

- There is no space between the "CC" and the apostrophe.
- Note the direction of the apostrophe, which turns toward the "C."

The Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science

- The preferred logo of the College is blue, but using black ink is also acceptable.
- Always capitalize "The" when using the formal name of the school.
- "Columbia Engineering" may be used in less formal publications and when space is limited.
- Use the abbreviation "SEAS" (but never "CE" or "EN") in informal documents or when noting degrees earned.
- The correct class year designation is "SEAS" followed by the class year.

Example: Kat Cutler SEAS'11

- There is no space between the "SEAS" and the apostrophe.
- Note the direction of the apostrophe, which turns toward the S.
- The correct SEAS logo has only one line of text under "Columbia Engineering."

Offices

Does my Office have a logo?

No, Individual offices do not have logos.

Offices can identify themselves by using the dual-school mark and indicating their office name in text. However, office names should not be stacked above or below the unit or standard logo but may appear elsewhere in the document.

This presentation is brought to you by the Communications Team.

Programs

What about the graphics we use for #### specific student programs?

We may use established visual graphics to represent specific programs. However, the publication must also include the dual-school mark to identify its connection to our schools.

Columbia University

What is the official University logo, and when do I use it?

In high-level, formal communication or when we would need to speak more holistically about the University, the University logo may be considered. University logo usage must be approved by Honey Sue Fishman (hf2021@columbia.edu).

Please refer to the University Guidelines:

http://www.columbia.edu/cu/identityguidelines//identity1a.html

Co-branding

What happens if we co-sponsor a program with an outside organization or another school?

Although it would need to be updated with the dual-school mark, the concept for the 2011 sample at right is excellent. It shows the appropriate partnerships and office names without creating a new, unapproved logo.

Logo Placement

When placing the logo on a document, make sure that it is prominently displayed and far enough away from any other logos that may be used in co-branding.

The logo will most often be placed in the footer of the document and is rarely used as a header.

Using the Dual-school Mark

When resizing the logo for a document, be careful not to distort its proportions.

- Do not stretch or condense any University logo.
- Do not colorize the image file.
- Do not use the crown(s) without type.
- Do not typeset the logo.
- If you need the logo in a specific color, format, or background, send your request to the Communications Team.

stretched

crowns only

Using the Dual-school Mark

If you make no changes to the logo and use proper placement, you'll be in good shape!

- Do not use the logo to endorse anything.
- Do not use the logo as a title or header, per University guidelines.
- Do not combine it with another logo.
- Do not crop it in any way, including removal of the crowns.

Dual-school Mark Alternatives

If you need to place the logo on a small item and the full logo will not fit, there are alternatives:

Vertical mark:

COLUMBIA COLLEGE COLUMBIA ENGINEERING

Horizontal mark:

COLUMBIA COLLEGE | COLUMBIA ENGINEERING

These are approved for use on a case by case basis.

Color and Font

Color and font are communication elements that aid in brand recognition.

Formal documents should primarily use colors from the official Columbia University color palette.

- May also involve Columbia Creative (formerly Columbia Publications) in the design and printing process

Informal/Creative Documents

Note: Publication examples are from past years and do not fully comply with 2014-2015 guidelines.

- Describe specific events or programs
- Are generally distributed internally to a student audience
- Use more creative layout, colors, fonts, and graphics
- Vary in terms of required approval, per unit discretion

Style Guide for Writing

Using a consistent writing style throughout a written work makes it easier for readers to follow the message and lends polish and credibility to the work.

The standard style guide most University offices rely on is the Chicago Manual of Style.

While the text that follows is not a comprehensive style guide, it addresses a number of questions frequently asked by staff.

Dates

The format for dates in formal documents is "Month Date, Year".

Correct: December 31, 2013 Incorrect: November 30th 2014

When using a full date in the beginning or middle of a sentence—one that includes the month, date, and year—commas are used after the year.

December 31, 2015, is the next time we will celebrate New Year's Eve.

When not listing the day, the comma disappears.

January 2016 is going to be a very productive month.

In international or military format, no commas are used.

The first day of the new year will be 1 January 2016.

Dates

When including the day of the week, another comma is needed after the date.

Thursday, February 6, is when our next event takes place.

No comma is required between a date and a starting time for an event on that date.

The meeting is scheduled for August 31 at 7:00 p.m.

The combination of day, date, and time requires organizational punctuation

The meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, August 31, at 7:00 p.m.

Times

- Minutes are given. :00 :59
- a.m. and p.m. are lowercase and use punctuation.
- When a time range is used, substitute a longer dash, called an en-dash, for a hyphen, and insert spaces around it: 9:00 a.m. 6:00 p.m. (hyphen "-") (en-dash "-")
  - Word and PowerPoint will automatically insert an en-dash as a time range is typed.
  - An en-dash may also be inserted manually, from the symbols menu, in most programs.
  - Hyphens may be used instead of en-dashes in website content.
- Omit a.m. or p.m. after the first time in a range if there is no change from a.m. to p.m.
   or vice versa. 9:00 11:00 a.m., 5:00 7:00 p.m., 11:00 a.m. 12:15 p.m.

Commas

Although it may be considered old-fashioned by some, Columbia University generally uses a comma prior to the "and" in a series of three or more.

This is commonly referred to as a "serial" comma or an "Oxford" comma.

I typed the report, checked for errors, and had it bound.

serial comma

FAQs

Q: Do I use e-mail or email? A: Email.

Q: Does punctuation go inside or outside of quotes?

A: That depends.

- In the United States, periods and commas go inside quotation marks, regardless of logic. (This is due to peculiar typographical reasons from when printing used raised bits of metal.) Question marks and exclamation points are placed inside the quotes if they relate directly to the quoted content our outside the quotes if they relate to the entire sentence.
- Tip: Be careful not to use quotation marks in an attempt to emphasize a word. Underline or italicize that word instead. (The quotation marks will suggest to some people that you are using that word in a special or peculiar way and that you really mean something else.)

Q: Should seasons be capitalized?

A: No, winter, spring, summer, and fall should only be capitalized when used in a title.

Q: What words should we capitalize that we typically would not?

A:

- When referencing Columbia University, capitalize University.
- Capitalize President when referring to President Bollinger. Do not capitalize if referring to a general presidency.
- Always capitalize Board of Trustees.

FAQs

Q: When do I capitalize people's titles?

A: Civil, military, religious, and professional titles are capitalized when they immediately precede a personal name and are thus used as part of the name (Example: Dean Kromm). Titles are normally lowercase when following a name or used in place of a name.

Q: Do I capitalize degrees when these are spelled out?

Names of degrees, fellowships, and the like are lowercase when referred to generically. Examples: a master's degree; a doctorate; a fellowship; master of business administration (MBA)
